

Schwarzberg Is To Be Speaker

Harold Schwarzberg will be the speaker at the third of the series of lectures being held here under auspices of the Ulster County Bar Association by the Practising Law Institute of New York city on Tuesday evening, April 16. There are over 60 enrolled in the course which will conclude on May 14 with a talk on Income Tax Law.

Mr. Schwarzberg, a member of the firm of Skutch, Meyer & Burton of New York city, will speak on "Wills and Surrogate's Practice," in which he will dwell upon the important points of drafting of wills and trusts with relation to the distribution of estates, the facilitation of administration and relevant tax problems. Typical problems in the administration of decedent's estate will also be discussed.

Associated with the Wall Street law firm Mr. Schwarzberg is a graduate of Columbia College and Law School. He is editor of the Columbia Law Review and secretary of the committee in legal education and admission to the bar of New York County Lawyers Association.

This lecture, as has others, will start at 7:30 o'clock at the court room in the county court house and will be of approximate two-hour length.

Young Women Now Sever Old Ties With Kitchen

WASHINGTON.—The woman who once accepted as law the dictate that her place was in the kitchen has been replaced by the industrial woman who realizes that her sphere of influence extends to the development of wise social and economic policies, according to the woman's bureau of the labor department.

The observation was made in a study of the work lives of women who attended one of the several summer schools held for women wage-earners. The schools are located at the University of Wisconsin, at the Southern summer school at Asheville, N. C., the Barnard summer school in New York city, discontinued in 1934, and the Hudson Shore Labor school, formerly the Bryn Mawr summer school.

Covering a four-year period from 1931 to 1934, the study revealed that the women, coming principally from manufacturing industries, showed a growing interest in trade unions as a way out of the nadir of low salaries, frequent job changes, and unemployment.

Although 75 to 85 per cent of the summer school students were drawn from the ranks of industry, records of the bureau showed a rising trend in admittance of domestic and personal service workers.

Investigators found that the average age of the students was 24, usually a native-born, single and experienced worker possessing a high degree of skill.

California Lava Beds

The Lava Beds National monument in California presents many interesting features, geological as well as historical. Despite the warm summers of this section of California, a number of the caves, formed by lava flows, contain ice formations which never melt. Frozen during a long period of years, the caves have taken on the beauty of crystal stalactites and stalagmites, with solid columns of ice. Other caverns show strange lacework designs made by the lava drippings. Much of the surface of the area is formed by billowy lava. Scientists explain that this flowed like thick molasses from scores of fissures in the earth's crust. The material is still so unaffected by weathering that it appears to have been molten only a few months ago. This is the type of lava known in Hawaii as Pahoehoe.

Ozarks to Get Model Village

Experts Complete Plans to Move Community to New Location.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO.—Plans for the model town of Greenville, a town to be rebuilt under the eyes of artists and experts starting with only a population and a site, are finished.

Soon the citizens of the town, whose present site will be covered by waters of the St. Francis river backed up behind Wappapello dam, will vote to bring the new site into their city limits.

After that, under a co-operative plan worked out by citizens who must move their homes, the red and green Christmas-like drawing on the wall of the state planning board will come to life.

By 1941, the dam will be finished and the waters will be creeping through the streets of what once was Greenville while its population of 600 erects its new home a mile away on high ground.

Artistic Aspects Stressed.

The planning for the town reveals the artist's as well as the engineer's hand. Greenville's streets will be made to fit the contours of the hill country in which it will be situated. The trees and flat place will be saved to provide shade and park space. The site is about one-third of a mile square.

Lying along a north-south highway, the town will be on the banks of the lake created by the dam if the waters ever reach flood stage. That is considered unlikely.

Next to the highway will be the filling station area, and immediately back of that, well away from the road, will be the commercial district.

The industrial section will be slightly south of the business area. Hospital to be added.

A broad parkway will lead from the business section past the one church and the school to the Wayne county courthouse, about a block away. A hospital, something Greenville now lacks, was provided for. Around the church, school, hospital and courthouse will remain, except for necessary improvements and streets, the natural Ozark scenery for a small park.

The main residential section is divided into three main streets which curve through the small ravines. There will be no crowding.

About 40 businesses will be concentrated in the one-third of a square block designated as the commercial area and a flour mill and other small plants will operate in the industrial area.

The one church probably will be acceptable. Greenville now has three churches, but a minister is available for only one each Sunday, so the townsfolk congregate at whatever church has a pastor.

The careful plans took care of 138 residents, three hotels and three lodging houses, the present Greenville's residential buildings.

Gold Output in United States Increases in 1939

WASHINGTON.—The bureau of mines announces that the United States and its possessions mined a total of 5,593,425 ounces of recoverable gold valued at $195,769,875 during 1939.

The figures as compiled by the Denver office of the bureau show an increase of 8 per cent over the 5,170,743 ounces valued at $180,976,005 produced in 1938.

California was the principal contributor with 25 per cent of the 1939 totals while all states and territories showed gains over the previous year. The Philippine Islands mined 18 per cent; Alaska, 12 per cent; South Dakota, 11 per cent; Colorado, 7 per cent; Nevada and Arizona, 6 per cent; and Utah and Montana, 5 per cent.

While Utah and Montana mined only 5 per cent of the totals, they had the largest percentage increase because of an accelerated output of copper and zinc-lead ores from which considerable gold is recovered. The bureau's report indicated, however, that dry and siliceous ores and placer gravels continued to supply the bulk of domestic gold.

After 41 Years in Navy, He May Stay In for Life

NEWPORT, R. I.—Chief Storekeeper Stanley Baker, 71, oldest man in active service in the navy, is being allowed by special authorization of the navy department to remain in the navy as long as he desires.

Mr. Baker is attached to the naval torpedo station here. Capt. Thomas Withers, commanding, received a letter from the department saying that in view of his "long and faithful service to retain him in your command as long as he desires."

Born in 1869 at South Dennis, Mass., Mr. Baker has completed 41 years service. His father, the late Capt. Alpheus Baker Jr., and his grandfather, Alpheus Baker Sr., were Cape Cod shipmasters. His great uncle, the late Capt. John (Mad Jack) Percival, U. S. N., was in command of the frigate Constitution (Old Ironsides) on her last voyage around the world.

Back to Work

McCahey, Tex. (P)—Maybe it's gratitude. A. M. Page's dominicker hen tumbled into a water trough. Page found her there, unconscious and apparently dead. He fished her out, applied the prone pressure method of resuscitation. The hen revived. Now, reports Page, she lays more eggs than ever before.

RUBY

Ruby, April 11—Mr. and Mrs. N. Backenroth had as their guests Mrs. Wohlgenuth, Mrs. Moucher, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Bartone and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cram, all of New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Bartells of New Jersey are spending some time at their home here. They had as their guests George Ledecke of Plank Road, Kingston.

Mrs. Clyde Gaddis is still confined to her home with an injured knee. Her many friends wish her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sutton and family and Mr. and Mrs. George Brink and daughter of Mt. Marion, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. David Scheffel.

Mr. and Mrs. John Horton, Miss Janet Horton, Henry Horton of Milton, Curtis Perkins of Highland spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Felton.

Mrs. Bert Felton, Mrs. Kate Backenroth, Mrs. Evelyn Scheffel spent Monday in Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Felton and family spent Sunday visiting friends in Kingston.

Will Hold Rehearsals

The Kingston Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of George Hagstrom, will continue to hold rehearsals on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Leventhal building until further notice. Members of the Symphony assisted in the concert given by the Poughkeepsie Philharmonic last Monday night, and will also assist the recently organized Newburgh Symphony on April 22, in playing for the anniversary celebration of the city of Newburgh.

Night Driving 'Blindness'

Study of night highway accidents indicates that a substantial part of them may result from the inability of drivers to adjust their eyes after the blinding light of headlights, according to the Better Vision institute. This condition is known as "night blindness." One-third of a group of drivers involved in night highway accidents were found to have "night blindness" in varying degrees. Because "night blindness" is not an error in refraction, it cannot be corrected with spectacles. Some cases, however, are aided by a diet rich in vitamin A. The best way for persons with this visual shortcoming to avoid accidents, warns the institute, is to drive as little as possible at night, and when night driving is necessary, to operate the car slowly and cautiously.

CHIEF JUSTICE HUGHES IS 78

Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, celebrated his 78th birthday anniversary with a brisk walk near his Washington home long before most of his neighbors were up. But he wasn't too early for 11-year-old Helen Chapin, shown presenting him with a small bouquet of violets and wishing him "happy birthday."

Merchants to Set Date for Awards To Prize Winners

Ending the sixth week in their campaign, the Boost Broadway Committee of the Central Business Men's Association are completing details for the big event to be held at the end of the contest. It has been decided that the $500 in prizes will be awarded on an auction basis, and that the contestant holding the most paper money, which is given with every purchase at each of the 40 participating stores, shall receive the first prize of $150. The second highest amount will receive $100, and there will be 13 other merchandise awards.

Final plans as to where the event will be held, will be announced after the committee's meeting next Tuesday evening. H. G. Rafalowsky, chairman of the committee, states that merchants have reported an increase in business since the start of the contest, and that in co-ordination with it, are offering attractive values to shoppers. Everyone is requested to ask for paper money when they make their purchases.

To date there have been many contestants who have registered. Among them are the Ladies Aid, Reformed Church of the Comforter; non-commissioned officers, state armory; William Van Kleeck, Hazel Cure, Mrs. E. Fishang, Clyde Elias, St. John's Parish Aid, Townsend Club; William Lewis Wrigg, John Fallon, Jr., Joe Gruberg, Blanche Burre, Donald Spanton, Chris Louis, Mrs. Elton, Frank Bruno, Leonard McKay, Frank Snell.

Mr. Rafalowsky asked that all those who have not as yet registered to do so by calling him, or by contacting any member of the committee. They are Harry Walker, George Dittmar, Ray Craft, Stanley Dempsey, Chet Miller, George Dawkins and Ellisworth Haines.

Cox & Moxham
Harry Moxham of 351 Broadway and Leonard Cox of 617 Delaware avenue have filed a partnership certificate with the county clerk stating they are doing business at 351 Broadway under the name of Cox & Moxham.

GERMAN BATTLESHIP REPORTED DAMAGED IN FIGHT

The 26,000-ton German battleship Scharnhorst, (above) one of the Reich's biggest warships, was damaged in a battle between British and German sea forces off the Norwegian coast, Winston Churchill announced in London before the house of commons. Churchill, first lord of the admiralty and virtual commander of Britain's armed forces, said the Scharnhorst was engaged by the 32,000-ton British battle cruiser Renown but later was able to escape.

'Selective' Tree Cutting Aids U. S. Conservation

The problem of perpetuating the nation's forest reserves apparently is being solved in the southern states, at least. Lumbermen in that section say that a new method of selective cutting which they have pioneered guarantees a perpetual supply of good timber if universally adopted.

Already they foresee steady employment for communities which otherwise would be abandoned, as many have been in the past; conservation of rich top soil; preservation of game; prevention of climatic changes resulting from denudation of large forest areas.

Formerly the companies built logging roads into forests and used steam skidders to drag logs to the trucks. Skidders are steam-powered drums which drag in the logs by cables. The method is not only expensive but highly destructive. Little of value is left after a stand is logged in this fashion.

The new method depends on the use of modern low-priced trucks, inexpensive logging roads, easily and cheaply built with modern road machinery, and log loaders of the drag line shovel type. With this equipment loads of from 2,500 to 4,500 board feet are economically and speedily handled.

The trucks go into the woods and get as close as possible to the spot where trees are being felled. Logging with trucks, road machinery and log loaders is so much cheaper than with earlier methods that logging companies can take only the larger trees, leaving the smaller ones to mature later. A continuous yield results.

Before placing the new method in operation, the companies make a survey in which trees are classified as to size and condition. The larger ones and those in unsound condition are marked and logging crews take only the marked trees. Removal of unsound trees along with good ones helps in eradicating disease and at the same time aids the development of younger trees.

Southern companies employing the new method proudly display "before and after" photographs of timbered areas in which selective cutting has been practiced.

Wooden Railroad Ties Still Rated as Superior

More than 2,500 patents have been granted in the last 50 years for railroad-tie materials other than wood, says a booklet issued by the United States department of agriculture. But in general, railway traffic continues to move on a wood foundation. The forest products laboratory estimates that about a billion wooden ties are in service.

There is an annual renewal of about 100 ties to the mile, on the average, but several important railroads get along with yearly renewals of 50 to 75 ties a mile. This longer life of the tie results from better roadbed, better construction methods, and chemical treatments with preservatives. In recent years railroads have been buying about 50,000,000 ties a year, compared with nearly 150,000,000 30 years ago. Three-quarters of the ties are now treated before they are laid.

Cheapness, strength, elasticity, resistance to shock, ease of replacement, and electric insulating properties are qualities of wood ties that account for the demand that promises a continuing market for this staple product of American woodlands.

Ancient Roman 'Brick'

In one of the museums of Rome there is preserved a "brick" discovered in Sicily some years ago. This is an interesting brick, however, for it is more than 1,700 years old and was made out of soft clay by brickmakers who lived during the time of the old Roman empire. It is interesting for another reason, though, and that is for the curious letters scratched upon its surface. These were placed there with a sharp stick by schoolboys who passed the brick yard at the time when this particular brick, with many others, was still soft and drying in the sun. The letters are in Greek. The top line was made by a child who was still learning to make capitals and he practiced by making "S" (Greek Sigma) ten times. Then beneath these, he wrote ten times the letter "K" (Greek Kappa). Then he wrote at the end of the first line the Greek word Xelona, meaning turtle, and at the end of the second line the words myla (mill) and kados (turtle).

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 12, 1940.

THE AMERICAS CELEBRATE

Pan American Day, April 14, reminds us that there has been a Pan American Union for fifty years. Through it the governments and many private citizens of our own and the other republics of this hemisphere have been working to bring about understanding, cooperation and good will among the peoples of the North and South American continents. They have already accomplished a great deal more than many of us know. Between the big international conferences there are many meetings of small groups and committees to take up special problems.

There is, for example, the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, with permanent offices in Washington. It was set up following the second international conference of American states in Mexico City in 1902. Its chief interest is prevention of the spread of communicable diseases. Improvements of public health is another. The bureau has traveling representatives constantly in the field, studying conditions, gathering information, and so on. It publishes a monthly bulletin and acts as a consulting body at the request of national health authorities.

There are also divisions of information on economics, labor and social problems, agriculture, travel and intellectual cooperation, the various duties of which are suggested by their names.

With the Western Hemisphere suddenly made conscious of its fortunate geographical situation and its great opportunities, it is good that there is already an organization set up and ready to further cooperative efforts and mutual understanding.

OUR WAR CRITICISM

The British and French have been annoyed lately by American criticism of them and the way they are handling the war. The British especially have been jolted by an apparent change in American sentiment. Americans themselves may be interested in the way the situation is explained in a British publication, the Manchester Guardian Weekly, by the Guardian's New York correspondent.

"Both leading government officials and American public opinion generally," he writes, "continue overwhelmingly in favor of the Allied cause. There is no desire to do anything which would in any way favor Germany. Many steps already have been taken, indeed, which have the opposite effect—such as the modification of the arms embargo and the tacit consent in the British blockade."

"When protests have been made to Britain it is for one of two reasons. Either Americans believe that British actions affecting their interests are harsher than is necessary, or the protests have been made to establish a record of them in case this is later desirable for legal purposes."

"Americans, with their inveterate tendency to criticize other governments, frequently express drastic disapproval of the way in which the Chamberlain government is conducting the war. Such criticism, however, should be read as starting from the assumption that it is altogether desirable that Britain and France should win."

This statement seems, on the whole, rather accurate.

FOREST RESTORATION

During the last five years the tree planting of the United States Forest Service has averaged more than 160,000 acres a year. This spring the planted area will exceed a million acres. That sounds like a lot of trees, but the forest service estimates there are still about three and a half million acres of national forest land in need of planting, primarily because fires have destroyed the forest cover, leaving no seed trees for natural reproduction.

The government never will be "all planted up", because there probably always will be some fires to make serious inroads on the forests. But the reckless waste of forests by human beings has been curtailed. Even privately owned forest land is used more scientifically, and individuals and communities now do much reforestation on their own.

It will be a long time before we can compensate for the wiping out of our forests in the rapid growth of the country, but there is today assurance that the trend is in that direction rather than continuing destruction.

ANXIOUS LITTLE FOLKS

Psychologists have identified at least fifty anxieties suffered by children at the age of ten years. If it is shocking to find that supposedly carefree childhood is so troubled, it is also reassuring to learn that its worries are fairly normal.

Children worry about school affairs—tests, report cards, tardiness. They worry about home problems—doing wrong, being punished, being blamed for something they didn't do, saying the wrong thing. They are concerned lest their parents work too hard or get sick or go away.

When such worries loom too large in a child's thoughts they are harmful. Mostly, however, in normal children and normal homes, they are passing matters, balanced by happy events and obvious security. They are all forgotten in due course of time.

The experts found the children quite unworried about "witches, or the world coming to an end, or spooky stories or not having nice clothes."

It would be interesting to know whether some of them worry about getting enough to eat. We are thankful that American youngsters do not have to worry about air raids.

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION

If Canada is going to turn out 1,000 trained airplane pilots a week, as the British government says, our northern neighbor may soon be the flyingest country in the world.

The pilots will mostly go abroad to fly the warplanes our American factories are turning out. It should be a great combination, which might be a determining fact in the war.

And when the war is over, and there are tens of thousands of Canadian flyers coming home, and our factories are geared to producing planes on a huge scale, there should be a big spurt of peaceful airplane development in this new world. Uncle Sam and Canada together could blanket our hemisphere with passenger and freight planes, and supplement them with foreign routes covering the world.

"RESISTANT" CASES OF HIVES

As youngsters we never thought much about hives. We know that the little reddish white lumps were caused by something we had eaten and they would soon go away. Perhaps we were given a teaspoonful of baking soda or the skin was bathed in a baking soda solution.

Today an attack of hives—urticaria—is recognized as one "outward" sign of allergy or sensitivity to foods, drugs, animal bites, or use of a serum.

Foods commonly causing hives are meat, eggs, fish, cereals, shellfish, strawberries, tomatoes, fresh fruits, cabbage, chocolate.

Fortunately, in most cases, the little lumps disappear in a few hours, or a few days at most. Avoiding the particular cause prevents attacks.

The treatment of course is to find the cause, as hives is just a symptom, not a disease.

In severe cases physicians inject 10 to 15 drops of epinephrine (adrenalin) under the skin, just as in asthmatic attacks.

However, there are cases where the hives cannot be controlled by simple measures and may become dangerous to life owing to the great swelling of the tissues. That nervousness may prolong an attack of hives or even bring on an attack in an allergic individual is now agreed.

Dr. Eugene F. Traut, Chicago, in Archives of Dermatology and Syphilology (skin ailments and syphilis) states that most authorities agree that some individuals are allergic to certain bacteria—small organisms—as shown by the great benefit following the use of vaccines in cases that were not helped by the usual treatment.

It is often possible to isolate or discover a colony of "indifferent or green" streptococci from the large intestine of a normal person. The presence of these bacteria in profusion or the presence of separated blood on the wall of the intestine is distinctly not a normal condition.

The use of vaccines of these "green and indifferent" streptococci in 4 resistant or extremely difficult cases of urticaria gave good results.

This means that when an attack of hives resists other methods of treatment, it may be that it is due to these "abnormal" organisms in the large intestine. Vaccines made from these organisms are injected in these cases.

Allergy
Hives, hay fever, asthma, eczema, snuffy head colds, migraine, intestinal upsets, are a few of the symptoms which may be due to allergy or sensitivity to various foods or other substances. Send ten cents for Dr. Barton's helpful booklet entitled "Allergy" (No. 106), enclosing the name of the Kingston Daily Freeman, to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

A BREAK FOR THE MIDDLE CLASS

Babson Says Today's Forgotten Class Is Middle Class

Washington, D. C., April 12—I hope that sometime, somehow, somewhere, a candidate for something will rise up and declare: I stand for the man who wants to work and who wants to be an employer some day. I represent the Middle Class—the forgotten class of 1940! If elected, I will take the government's heel off your neck. I will stop spending your money recklessly. I will prevent government competition with you and your boss!

I fervently pray that such a candidate will soon appear. For ten years, we have tried every experiment under the sun except giving the Middle Class a break! Let's try that experiment for the next four years!

America at the Crossroads

When this candidate appears, I want to hear him say: I represent the men and women who made America; we who, constantly, have had a sense of responsibility to the state and government in which we live; we who have asked for little and given much as we work and struggle for a livelihood. We now declare that we will no longer tolerate conditions that are reducing us to poverty and rushing us toward national bankruptcy. This government must stop profligacy, extravagance, and waste. It must live within its means. A balanced budget must gradually be brought about. Industry and employers must be encouraged to develop jobs!

Will such a man appear? I fervently pray that he will, regardless of whether he is a Democrat or Republican, Catholic or Protestant, young or old. Again I say that America is at the crossroads. The next four years either will make or break us. Too long our governments have been in the hands of the wealthy, the theorists, the racketeers. Let us not re-elect any of such but put in their places candidates who say, "I stand for the man who wants to work and who wants to become an employer." For all things, America needs more employers today. This is the only way that our unemployment mess will be cleaned up.

Unemployment a Religious Problem

But again I say this change cannot be brought about by legislation or by appropriations. Only as all groups awaken spiritually to the "haves" give up and will the "have-nots" wake up. The great Middle Class, at heart, are a religious people. When they are forgetful of their religion, then follows much unemployment, but when they are practicing their religion, then unemployment quickly disappears. Religion not only gives us the will to be of service but guides us to where we can be of the most service!

SHANDAKEN

Shandaken, April 11.—Miss Martha Lee Cox of Pleasantville visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Osterhout, last week, taking her home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown were business visitors in Kingston on Tuesday.

Mrs. C. E. Wood, who has been ill with a cold, is improving.

F. S. Osterhout, accompanied by his clerk, Charles Griffin, made a trip to Pleasantville on Wednesday.

Miss Elvora Breithaupt of Phoenix was a caller in this place on Wednesday.

Miss Helen Brown of New York, accompanied by two friends, were visitors over the week-end at the home of her father, John Brown, on Main street.

Election

Columbia, Mo. (P)—All the printers had to do to set up forms for an election was change the dates on the forms used four years ago—if they still had the forms. Three candidates ran, unopposed, to succeed themselves in office, for which they were unopposed in 1936.

PORT EWEN

P. T. A. Meets

Port Ewen, April 12.—The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association was held Wednesday evening, April 16, Mrs. William Schweigel presiding. This was the annual "Fathers' Night."

The meeting was opened with a piano solo, "Prelude" by Rachmaninoff, played by Miss Helen Behrens.

The guest speaker was the Rev. Father Connell, who took "Religion in the Home" for his topic. He said that education means the training of all the faculties of both body and soul to fit the child for life. Real education must have religion in it. It is especially necessary in the home since there is no religion taught in the public schools. Father Connell said that religious instruction must be intelligent, must be attractive and must be accompanied by a good example on the part of the parents. Mrs. Raymond Howe thanked Father Connell in behalf of the unit.

After the song, "There's Music in the Air," the business meeting was held.

The secretary, Miss Polhemus, read an invitation from Mrs. Everice Parsons, Home Bureau demonstrator, inviting the members to a dinner and "Family Life Conference" at which Dr. Mary Fisher of Vassar College will be the speaker, to be held at the Mt. Marion Church April 18.

Mrs. John Reynolds announced progress in the card party she is planning on April 18 and asked all the members to help.

Mrs. Basil Potter read the names of the following who were nominated and elected as officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Burton Winchell; vice-president, Mrs. Philip O'Reilly; secretary, Miss Mary Polhemus; treasurer, Mrs. John Reynolds; assistant secretary, Miss Adiska Conroy; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Raymond Howe.

Mrs. Schweigel dismissed last month's hostesses with thanks. She also announced the district conference to be held in Newburgh May 18.

The award for the month was won by Mrs. Cole's room.

After the meeting Mrs. Philip O'Reilly, Mrs. Percy McConnell and Mrs. George Berens served refreshments.

Village Notes

Port Ewen, April 12.—Mrs. E. A. Eggers has returned to her home in Brooklyn after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Vining.

The lobby of the post office will be closed at 2 o'clock on Saturday until necessary repairs are completed.

Mrs. Alfred Vining has returned to her home after spending a week with her mother in Hensenville.

The Men's Community Club will hold a bowling match Monday evening with the team from the Trinity Lutheran Church.

Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, will hold a card party Wednesday, May 1, in the lodge rooms of the Pythian Hall. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

The Methodist Church choir will meet this evening, the juniors at 6:45 o'clock and the senior choir at 7:15 o'clock.

Purchase

Ionia, Mich. (P)—The city of Ionia recently bought its own city dump for non-payment of taxes. The property, included among other parcels offered at a sale of tax delinquent land, was discovered to be owned by two citizens. The latter had paid no taxes for 15 years, believing the city owned the property. The city thought it owned the property, too. So, to make sure, City Clerk Raymond Coon bid in the dump.

President Has Had Experience Behind Scenes in Naval Warfare Strategy and Present Conflict Intrigues Him

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 12—Nobody in the governmental world, with the possible exception of Winston Churchill himself, could be more interested in the strategy of the naval warfare in Scandinavian waters than President Roosevelt. Of all the laymen who have followed naval affairs, Mr. Roosevelt has the unique experience of having been behind the scenes in the World War when he served as assistant secretary of the navy.

Mr. Roosevelt spent a good part of the time in London during the war, alongside of the chiefs of the British admiralty. His knowledge of the European scene is not only extensive, but he was largely responsible for the plan whereby German submarines were prevented from reaching the English channel to interfere with British and American transportation of troops in 1918.

Neutrality and the requirements of the President's position prevent him from expressing any opinions even indirectly about the way the naval warfare off the Norwegian coast has been conducted, but it is a safe assumption that the President, who has been in conference with the admirals of our navy, is thoroughly informed on the probable advantages and disadvantages which may arise to the allies and the Nazis as a consequence of the latest adventures.

Mr. Roosevelt has always been a strong believer in sea power. More than any other man of our times he has been influential in guiding up the American navy. He is intimately acquainted with the problems of the navy and last year spent a large part of his vacation actually taking part in the maneuvers of the American fleet. He knew the war games of the navy and saw with his own eyes what the fleet could do under certain tactical conditions of the most difficult nature.

The President knows the top men in the navy intimately and knows a good deal about the new ships and all the auxiliary weapons relating to submarines and air carriers.

If the United States should ever be drawn into war and Mr. Roosevelt has retired from office, it may well be assumed that he would be among the first to offer his services to the navy department, for his experience and judgment in that direction are unmatched by any civilian in the country today.

The President's keen interest in naval strategy has enabled him to follow events overseas, and to anticipate some of them by reason of the fullness of American diplomatic reports. It now becomes clear, for instance, just why the President so promptly after the return of Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state, issues a statement saying there was "scant immediate prospect" of peace. Undoubtedly the President was aware of the determination of the Nazis to make a desperate attempt by means of a spring offensive in the northern part of Europe to gain territory and raw materials.

At this moment the fortunes of the allies and the Nazis seem enveloped in a fog of contradictory reports, but the official Washington attitude is one of apprehension because of a growing belief that before many weeks, perhaps days, the Balkan states will be drawn into the fray, and this means Italian participation in some form.

The prospect that the British and French fleets are expecting action in the Mediterranean is beginning to open up all sorts of conjecture here, especially as word comes that the Italians are beginning to call to the colors some of their reserves. The hope here is that Italy will stay neutral. It is today the only neutral entrance to Europe that is safe for travel. What did Mussolini and Hitler decide at their secret conference when Mr. Welles was in Europe? Maybe President Roosevelt can guess. He has the best sources of information in the world today, but he is keeping mum. It is significant that no word of comment denouncing the Nazi invasion of two weak neutral countries has come from the White House as happened when Finland was invaded by Russia. Strict neutrality of expression is the rule here now, outwardly at least.

Marginal Coal Mines

Lausanne (P)—Switzerland's wartime coal mines are being worked again for the first time in 20 years. A century ago the Swiss discovered small coal deposits in the Valais canton near Lausanne, but they were worth operation only when wars in Europe raised the price of coal. Three such mines have begun opened recently.

B. P. O. E. Install Officers

Last night was installation night for the new officers of the B. P. O. E., at their club rooms on Fair street. The new officers are, seated left to right: Louis G. Bruhn, esteemed loyal knight; William Edelmuth, secretary; Vincent Connelly, esteemed leading knight; and G. D. Logan, past exalted ruler. Standing in the same order are: Richard Obenaus, tiler; Dr. Robert Plass, esquire; Sydney Flisser, exalted ruler-elect; William H. Rothery, retiring exalted ruler; Charles A. Ryan, past district deputy; Dr. J. H. Rosenberg, trustee; and Alex Lovey, chaplain.

Following the installation, retiring Exalted Ruler William H. Rothery was presented with a locket containing a life membership in the B. P. O. E., for distinguished service in the organization. The locket was presented by Grand Lodge Representative Charles A. Ryan in a most impressive address.

Phinney Favors Widening Cornell Street Five Feet

for an hour to test out the chief's theory.

The board also directed City Engineer Norton to investigate the proposition of widening Cornell street and submit a report to the board later.

Chief Phinney called the board's attention to the new experimental traffic regulations that had gone into effect that day in making Wall and Fair streets, one-way streets between Main and North Front streets, and East Strand a one-way street, between Hasbrouck avenue and Broadway.

Business Men Pleased

The chief reported that uptown business men appeared pleased with the plan and that it appeared to work with great success that day. Downtown, however, the chief said that some of the business men did not approve of making East Strand a one-way street, and that they also believed that entrance should be from Broadway instead of Hasbrouck avenue.

The chief said, however, that he favored entrance from Hasbrouck avenue as established since it did not interfere with the summer flow of traffic entering the city by the ferry, and also with the operation of the city bus lines.

The questioning of positioning highway reflectors on East Chester street, from Tammany street to the city line, was brought up by Superintendent Steuding, who said that $175 had been placed in the budget for that purpose.

The superintendent was authorized to proceed with the installation. The reflectors are similar to those the county installed some time ago on the By-pass from the city line to the intersection of Route 9-W.

Bids for the refreshment concessions in Forsyth Park opened. Meyer Basch of 173 Hasbrouck avenue was the highest bidder. His bid was $77.50 for the uptown park. He was awarded the concession.

No other bids were received. The board discussed the matter of asking for bids for refreshment concessions in Lawton Park and at the municipal stadium, and the matter was referred to the city engineer.

Ronnberg Asks Help

Henry F. Ronnberg of Emerson street appeared before the board in regard to water in the cellar of his home. During the recent heavy rain storm when Tannery Brook overflowed its banks his cellar was flooded to such an extent that it was necessary to have it pumped out several times.

Mr. Ronnberg said that at the present time there was fully a foot of water over the vacant lots next door to his home and that the water seeped from these lots into his cellar and he sought relief.

After some discussion Mayor Heiselman directed the city engineer to submit him a list of abutting property owners along the brook, stating he would invite them to meet with him to discuss the question of piping the brook.

Engineer's Report

City Engineer Norton submitted the following report of work done during March:

Office Work

Building permits issued were houses 2; garage 1 and miscellaneous 2. Worked on Y branch record maps. Making estimate of North Front street widening. Made out projects for city-wide sewers and also city-wide park project. Worked on zoning maps and general plan of sewers. Made map of Quarry street, Howland and Van Deusen avenues. during March. The four ash trucks had covered 1,888 miles during the past month, the city trucks had conveyed 849 loads to the incinerator, while private trucks had conveyed 651 loads.

The street force plowed 506 miles of streets from the snow storm of March 4, and 1,379 loads of snow were removed from the streets during the month, while 477 loads of snow were taken away by private trucks.

During March 241 loads of ice were removed from intersections and had ruts in the streets.

During the snow storm of March 22, 14 yards of sand were used for sanding.

Partnership Is Formed

James J. Van Vliet and James J. Van Vliet, Jr., of Marlborough, have certified that they are conducting a partnership business at Marlborough under the name of James J. Van Vliet & Son for the manufacture of concrete products.

Business

Tillamook, Ore. (P)—A main street merchant found the rigid enforcement of a half-hour traffic parking ordinance affected his business, so he advertised: "Will pay all parking fines against customers while in my store." Business has improved enough to absorb the fines without pinching, he reports.

Foreign Language Studies
The National Federation of Modern Language Teachers has started a campaign to encourage more general study in the United States of languages used by the other American republics—Spanish, Portuguese and French. Taking into account the close relations of the American republics, and the ties of commerce and culture, the federation will issue a series of "Language Leaflets" edited by Dean Henry Grattan Doyle of the George Washington University at Washington. The first of these pamphlets was written by Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, who pointed out that knowledge of modern foreign languages is particularly appropriate at present when international relations assume an even greater importance in the lives and interests of all peoples.

British Lay New Mine Fields to Block Germans

points on the Norwegian coast, Swedish reports of such actions persisted. One of these said a naval engagement was in progress at Thronheim, another that British warships appeared to be landing men from outer Oslo fjord, and yet another that British forces had landed south of Narvik and were striving to join Norwegian defenders. Still another report said the British and Norwegians already were "in close contact near Bergen."

Neutral observers received these accounts with reservations, in the absence of official confirmation. That the British already were harrying the Nazis on the Norwegian coast was confirmed by the air ministry, which announced two attacks on Germans at Stavanger airdrome, southwest Norway.

One British plane was lost, it said, but the Germans suffered much damage, including destruction of gasoline supplies. Once landings are effected, the allies' task is to push inland, ousting German garrisons as they go, before the Germans can solidify their positions.

Norwegian troops are counted on to aid greatly in isolating the German units, for in that rugged country rail communications can be cut or roads ruined in a single night by solitary men with sufficient dynamite.

The Norwegian valleys, ancient routes of invaders, are densely wooded and would offer concealment for expeditionary forces striking southward from Trondheim toward the most populous parts of Norway.

Several Cars Involved in Accident Near Avalon

Fritz Schuback of 97 West Chester street, was fined $3 when arraigned before Justice Harry J. Siemsen of Sawkill Thursday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Brown and Winne, the charge being operating a car with faulty brakes. A second charge, reckless driving, preferred by John W. Ryan, is to be considered at a hearing before Justice Siemsen on April 22 at 1 p. m.

Schuback's arrest followed an auto accident just south of the Avalon on Route 28 Thursday afternoon. According to the deputies a state truck had stopped about opposite the entrance to the Stony Hollow road while men were busy clearing debris from the highway. Ryan, coming out of the Stony Hollow road, en route to Kingston, stopped his car when he reached the main highway.

Meanwhile Frank Krom of Stony Hollow, coming up from Kingston, stopped alongside the state truck. At this point it is alleged that Schuback, also driving north, was unable to stop when he came to where the truck and car were stopped, pulled to his left and struck the Ryan car.

Rosendale to Have Spring Dance and Exhibit of Styles

A spring dance, fashion show and other entertainment will be featured tomorrow night at Firemen's Hall in Rosendale under the sponsorship of the Rosendale Township Association, which is campaigning to establish a sizeable advertising fund.

The proceeds of Saturday night's affair will be earmarked for the construction of an elaborate float to be entered in the Apple Blossom Festival parade next month.

Rudolph Ziegler, president of the resort association, at the last board of directors' meeting, said that the Rosendale float in last year's blossom parade was so outstanding that it would have won a prize if one had been offered. "This year," said Mr. Ziegler, "we will again challenge any other organization in the parade."

George May of Rosendale, Joseph O'Connor of Bloomington and Miss Fannie Williams of Williams Lake, committee in charge of Saturday night's entertainment and dance, promise a social highlight more outstanding than the Skier's Ball at which the Rosendale Winter Queen was crowned last January.

Ray Randall's orchestra will supply the music; Waring's Dress Shop of Kingston will show the latest spring styles modeled by Mrs. Gordon Henning, Miss Madeleine Tabacchi, Miss Regina Dellay, Miss Inge Kollinger, Miss Evelyn Fagher and Miss Virginia Celino; a burlesque show will be given by the Rosendale Township Association as an extra added attraction; flower girls will be on the floor to add to the dress of the guests.

The Cornus Club of Rosendale is assisting in the decorations and also will operate a hot check and refreshment concession for the benefit of the town library.

Mrs. Owens Objects To Treatment of Dogs

The following letter was received today by The Freeman regarding the dog situation in this city and is captioned "Have Nazi Ideas Come to Our Peaceful Happy City":

"Must man's most faithful friend be debased to the position of a mule?"

A peaceful big dog whose greatest joy is to walk close beside its master or mistress, already abused and made ill by a muzzle, now is ordered on a 'leash,' which is beyond endurance.

"Neither can they live in a muzzle on their own home land, making it impossible to eat or bury their precious bones."

"Must our best friends and watchmen be abandoned to give work to two men?"

"Respectfully yours,
"MINNIE VAN SLYKE OWENS"
"Marius Street,
"April 11, 1940."

Many weedy meadows can be traced directly to clover and grass seed which was sown without adequate cleaning for the removal of small weed seeds, according to Prof. M. T. Munn, head of the seed testing laboratory at Geneva. To bear out his statement, Prof. Munn cites analyses of clover and grass seed samples sent to the laboratory by farmers the past few weeks many of which contain weed seeds which the ordinary fanning mill has not removed because it requires intricate and expensive machinery to do this special cleaning of these small seeds.

Kiwanians Hear Of Stamp Values

C. Augustus Raschke, who retired in the fall of 1933, after 38 years in the postal service, told members of Kiwanis at their noon meeting Thursday some very interesting things about stamps and stamp collecting. Mr. Raschke said that he began collecting stamps after he left the service, but that if he had known what stamps were worth he would have started many years before he did.

At any rate, he appears to have picked up a good deal of information on the subject during the past seven years and although, according to his statement, his collection is a very modest one it fills some half dozen or more large books, in addition to many which have not been arranged.

As an instance of how stamps increase in value, Mr. Raschke told how a few years back he saw a man step up and pay $155 for three stamps celebrating the first Garl Zeppelin trip. It looked like a waste of money at the time, but since then three of these stamps have sold for $15 or $20.

Listeners were told something of the manufacture of stamps, the various kinds of paper used, different methods of printing, perforations, watermarks and other details connected with their manufacture.

Mr. Raschke emphasized the educational value of stamp collecting when it is followed out intelligently and its various "leads" made subjects of study.

Thus stamps as a rule represent subjects pertaining to the history, geography and prominent people of the country issuing them. Central American stamps will feature the rubber tree, bananas or the oil industry; Peru features the Andes Mountains and show the famous monument to Christ, while seven South American countries have stamps showing Simon Bolivar, their great liberator. This country has featured George Washington.

The number of individual issues is legion and one catalogue placed the total at over 67,000. The speaker believed the total would go beyond that.

In the U. S. previous to 1894 stamps were printed by the American Bank Note Co., but since that time they have been made by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing

What Do You Know About POLITICS?

1. Identify this veteran political leader whose state will vote for him on the first ballot at the Republican national convention.

2. What member of President Roosevelt's cabinet is running for the Democratic presidential nomination? What happened the last time a cabinet member ran for President?

3. New York state has at least five men who are or may be contenders for a presidential nomination. Can you name four?

4. Arizona delegates to the Democratic national convention will have only one-third vote each. How come?

5. What woman politician may be running for governor again this spring?

Each full question counts 20. A score of 80 is good.

at Washington. Formerly watermarked, that practice has not been followed here since 1920.

Mr. Raschke collects stamps from every country, but some collectors make a specialty of certain kinds of stamps. Sidney F. Clapp, who is one of Kingston's prominent collectors, makes a specialty of bridge stamps, others seek stamps showing waterfalls, maps, animals.

Collectors also get in touch with "fans" from other countries and exchange stamps and covers. Mr. Raschke said that he had one such correspondent in Java, another in the Philippines and two in Germany. He has not heard from the latter since the outbreak of the war.

Guests at Thursday's meeting were H. J. Martin of Piqua, Ohio, and Daniel Falk of New York city.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Prophetic Lines?

Bridgewater, Mass.—William Dunham, en route from Springfield to play a role in the South Shore Drama Guild's production of "The Dover Road," suffered injuries in an automobile accident and was unable to appear.

The company manager took over Dunham's role.

His opening lines: "We've had an accident—been delayed on the way."

Pays and Pays

Macon, Ga.—Charley Tarber, negro, fell off a foot bridge into a ditch and was unable to move.

Two young negroes answered his call for aid and agreed to pull him out for 50 cents each.

Tarber paid.

They agreed to call an ambulance for him, for 25 cents each.

Tarber paid.

The ambulance was privately owned.

Tarber paid again.

At the hospital, he was held for treatment of a hip fracture.

Day's Work

Wichita, Kas.—Census Enumerator Frank Green spent a lot of time at the W. B. Rogers' home before he listed all of the family.

Eighteen persons, including children and grandchildren, live in the one house.

Camera Shy

Burbank, Calif.—Two six-foot alligators made a dramatic debut before the cameras, diving into a swamp for a scene in "The Sea Hawk."

In the script they were to submerge, then break water. The reptiles submerged all right but they didn't come to the surface for several hours. Cameramen were gone by that time.

Once Is Enough

Exira, Iowa—For 26 years Farmer Elam Bills drained the radiator of his 1914 model automobile at the end of the day.

Then, one night while staying with his son, Melroy, he forgot his usual chore for the first time. Yep, it cracked the engine block.

Airplane Group To Be Organized

A large group of young local airplane model builders will be organized into a permanent club on Tuesday afternoon, April 16, when they will meet at the Rondout Hobby House on Mill street.

The Department of Recreation has turned over the workroom of the Hobby House for the exclusive use of the young builders, and leaders of the group have already fixed up the work benches and other equipment. This room will be used as the regular quarters for the club, and members will be free to work at their hobby during their leisure time.

Foremost in the plans of the proposed organization is the holding of a big model airplane flying contest which will be sponsored by the group in conjunction with the Department of Recreation. Model builders from all over the county will be invited to compete in this meet which will be held during the latter part of May at the Municipal Stadium.

Model airplane building is one of the leading hobbies of a great many boys, and the group which will organize next week boasts of some of the best builders in this section.

Membership in the proposed group will be open to any boy who is interested in airplane models. The meeting will be held at 4 p. m. and it is expected that a great many boys will be on hand for it.

"Big News" Now?

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT
BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

YOU can figure it out for yourself from what you see in daily traffic and what you hear when the talk turns to automobiles.

Buick's pacing the pack. Has been for years.

It called this year's style turn a year ago. It set current performance standards in '38 with its Dynaflex engine. It still leads the crowd for riding qualities with its BuicOil Springing, now in its third year.

So where's a more logical place to look for

You get a "Good Deal" Two Ways from Your Buick Dealer

A good "deal" when it comes to old-car allowances — and a whole lot of automobile in your new Buick.

next year's "big news" than in this year's big and roomy Buick?

It may be smoother engines. Buick is the only car that now balances power plants after assembly.

Coil springs all around may come. Buick's never need lubrication, are practically indestructible, and even cut down skid-risks.

Maybe it'll be heavier frames—Buick has the heaviest of any car of its price. Or maybe many of Buick's "extra touches" like safety-latches on rear doors and Two-Way Direction Signals with automatic cut-off.

You get all of these things now in Buick.

Get them with the plus of Buick quality of materials and workmanship—at a price that suggests a six instead of a husky eight.

So it's easy to start enjoying future "new features" right now. Go try a Buick. Look it over, inside and out. And get the prices.

LITTLE SPITEFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: To Brenda's surprise she learns that her friendship with Salts is the sole conversation of The Street. Mac advises her to drop Salts and Eric tells her to stick to her guns. Resentful at first, Brenda later decides she likes the interest shown in her.

Chapter Eight

Alaine And Abner

BRENDA had seated herself to become an author.

A good many preparations had been required but they were finished now. All that remained was to write the novel which was to bring her fame and fortune—but especially fame. Mac... that is, certain people would take her work seriously when she became a really noted writer.

Her typewriter stood on a firm table. She had had to buy that table since nothing in the house seemed other than shaky. The typewriter had a new ribbon. On one side lay a package of yellow second sheets; on a shelf of her closet was a box of "good sixteen-pound paper," as recommended by more experienced writers. Close at hand were a dictionary, thesaurus and a book of familiar quotations. She had no intention of making use of the last two but they gave a professional air to her desk.

All that was lacking now was the row after row of little words, tripping along in expert procession to tell her story. As for the story itself... Brenda had worked out a real system about that.

On her bed lay a sheet of thin cardboard, a yard and a half long, three-quarters of a yard wide. It was marked off into thirty-two squares; squares which represented the chapters of her book. In each square was a brief outline of what was to be contained in the chapter. It stood for, as for instance, "Chap. I. Margaret meets Brian in wood. She stumbles over root and he helps her home. Dialog develops mutual friends and interests; ends with engagement Brian call next day inquire for ankle."

It seemed a very simple and easy way of writing a book. Brenda marveled that she had never heard of anyone using it before. A square for each chapter, a chapter a day; in thirty-two days her book would be done, provided she felt it did not need revising.

She had made other preparations, too.

"I'm not to be interrupted when I'm writing," she said severely at the table. Supposedly she addressed the interested Grenadine but everyone present realized her warning included them all. "The fear of interruption is as bad as the interruption itself, you know. I must feel I'm safe when I'm writing."

Adelaide replied innocently: "Mac never minds how many people interrupt him. Sometimes I feel guilty, thinking how we use his room as a gathering place nights when he's writing."

"Oh, well, mine's not creative work," Mac said comfortably. "Anyhow, I'm used to being interrupted at the office. I know what Brenda means, though. We'll all have to listen for her typewriter and refrain from knocking at her door when it's going."

"Her door or the typewriter?" Eric inquired frantically. He had made it amply clear that he considered it a waste of time for a girl as pretty as Brenda to spend her time picking away at a typewriter.

Isobel had been none too sympathetic either. In fact, if it had not been for Grenadine's awestruck tiptoeing past the girl's door, and Adelaide's kindly if absent-minded encouragement, Brenda sometimes thought she would seek other quarters.

'Neighborhood Matter'

HOWEVER, here she was; and here was Margaret and Brian, with their program clearly outlined for them, and neither one finding a word to say to the other. Their creator was acutely annoyed with them. This first chapter, consisting almost entirely of conversation and having little action, must sparkle! Indeed she had written at the top of the cardboard in the first square: "sparkling!" But how in the name of heaven was an author to make her characters sparkle if they refused even to speak to each other? It was all most discouraging.

All morning she wrote and tore up, wrote and tore up. In the afternoon, she laid away one completed page with a sigh. It was far from being what she wished but she had to make a start somewhere. She was fitting in a fresh sheet of paper when upon her outraged ears fell the sound of a knock.

"Grenadine!" she exclaimed sternly. "Didn't I tell you—"

But it was Adelaide's plaintive voice which said: "It's I, dearest! I am so sorry to interrupt you but he said it was important, truly he did. Brenda! And when Judge Harper says anything is important—"

Brenda flung open the door. "Judge Harper? To see me? What about?"

Her landlady shook her head. "I haven't the slightest idea. He asked if you were in and I said yes but you were writing; and he said it was important and would you please come down—"

"Tell him I'll be with him in two minutes!"

Brenda powdered her nose and ran her comb through her curls. If there were bad news from Aunt Anne... but no, surely Dr. VanNess would have been selected as its bearer rather than Judge Harper.

"Good afternoon, Judge!" She gave him both her hands as he rose a little stiffly. Her apprehensions returned as she saw how troubled was his face. "Is—has Aunt Anne—"

Old Judge Harper might be stiff in his joints, but his mental faculties were as alert as ever. He said swiftly: "My dear child, I am not the bearer of bad news! I haven't had a word from your aunt. It's—a neighborhood matter on which I've come to consult you."

"Me?" She spread one small hand over her heart and her dimples flashed. "Oh, Judge Harper, am I to be consulted about neighborhood matters already? I'm so flattered!"

He looked somewhat abashed. "I... you—it's partly because you're a stranger, my dear, and—and young. I must be honest with you. Isobel Burke is young, too, but she's too familiar with the situation. She thinks I'm forever crying 'wolf! wolf!' and perhaps I am." The old eyes under their wrinkled lids sought hers imploringly.

"Tell me about it," she invited. He glanced toward the door. "If you don't object to my closing it—?" Not that Adelaide and everybody else in The Street isn't aware of the facts, but I'd like to present them to you without—without comment."

When the door was safely shut, he began briefly.

"It's the Abernathy twins—Alaine and Abner. They've had one of their quarrels again—"

Brenda interrupted, despite her respect for the old man.

"Secrets Of The Street"

"BUT I thought they were so devoted to each other! I thought they hardly left the house except in each other's company!"

"Even the most devoted persons quarrel," was the somewhat dry answer. "And usually their quarrels are more bitter than those whose attachment is casual. Every now and then Alaine and Abner have really dreadful—well, one might as well call them rows, I suppose. When they were quite young it didn't matter; they threw things at each other, then kissed and made up. But now—"

"Now?" Brenda prompted. "It's more serious. In fact, it's very serious. I... I feel disloyal, telling you about this, Brenda, but after all you're a Burnham—" you have a right to know the secrets of The Street." He looked down at his hands, locked tightly on one knee. Suddenly aware of this evidence of agitation, he loosened them, let them drop at his sides.

"Alaine has a young man," he said simply. "A—saur, Abner detests him, whether by reason or from fraternal jealousy I don't know. Alaine pays little attention to him except when she quarrels with Ab. Then she sends for him—his name is Ned Barrow—and threatens to marry him. Eric and Isobel—in fact, practically everybody on The Street, insist it is merely bluff; that she will never do it. But Ab gets into a panic about it and comes to me; and I—I'm an old fool," he said, smiling, "but I get disturbed, too."

"Why?" she demanded. "Don't you want Alaine to marry? Or do you know something against this Mr. Barrow?" He shook his head. "Not a thing in the world! I don't want her to marry him because she doesn't love him. That's plain enough, isn't it? Or she'd see him when she's not quarrelling with Ab? A marriage entered into out of revenge—in anger—has small chance of producing happiness, it seems to me."

"Of course. You're perfectly right, Judge. Alaine mustn't marry this Barrow unless she decides to while she's at peace with her twin. But what can I do about it?"

"You can come and talk to her now," was the unexpected reply. "He's waiting while she packs."

"Waiting at the Abernathy house, you mean?" Her tone was incredulous.

"Yes. She and Ab had one of their worst rows right after lunch. I couldn't help hearing them—I never can help it in the summer-time with the windows open. He said unhappily. "And when I saw young Barrow drive up a few minutes ago I was entirely prepared for Ab's dashing in to implore my help. I can't force my way into the child's bedroom. So," he concluded trustfully, "I came right to you."

Brenda's eyes had been growing wider and wider as she listened to this preposterous tale. Now she exclaimed with a little gasp. "But Judge, I've only met her once! She'd have every right to order me out—if I went barging into her house, let alone into her room!"

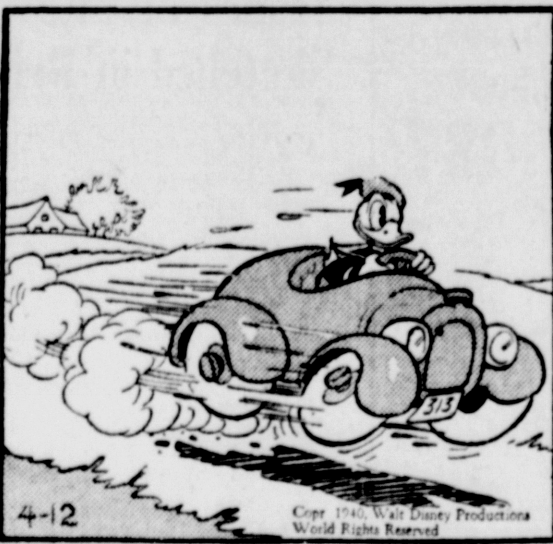

"Does that matter if we keep her from doing so foolish a thing?"

The sheer simplicity of the question caught her breath. He was right, of course. What did Alaine's attitude matter—what difference did it make if she hated Brenda for all time—if interference just now could protect her happiness?

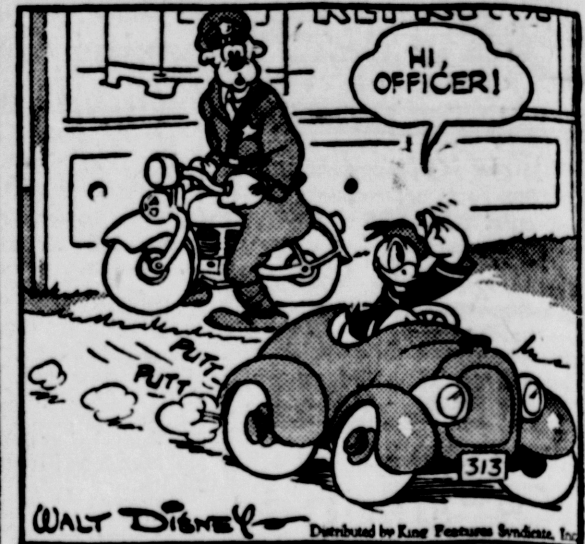

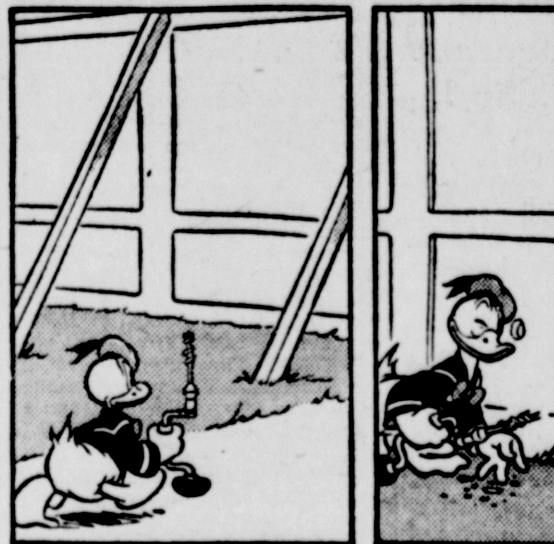

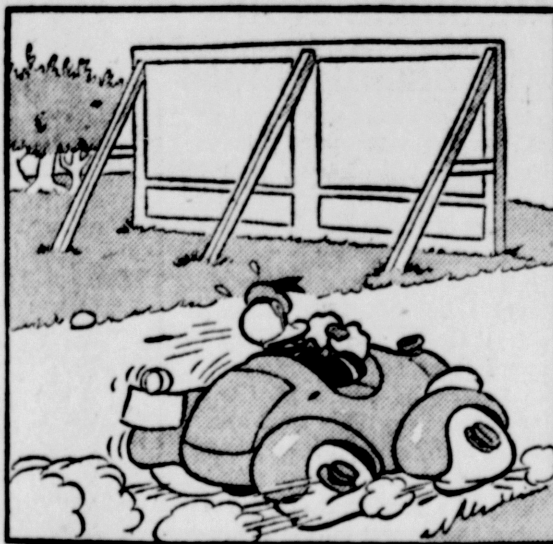

"I'll come with you," she said, and followed him out of the house without even stopping for her hat.

How To Become Civilized

1. Adopt a charity.
2. Curb bad temper.
3. Foster a religious creed.
4. Think twice before you act.
5. Never take revenge. It leads to remorse.
6. Love somebody, or something, earnestly.
7. Practice kindness, consideration and courtesy.
8. Learn how to forgive and forget.
9. Weigh and consider all problems impersonally.
10. Analyze your emotional reactions and ask yourself why.
11. Consider how it feels to be in the other fellow's place.
12. Avoid jealousy and envy by considering those less fortunate.

A very prominent man recently died and shortly after a friend of the family called to condole the widow. The caller had been a very warm friend of the deceased, and as he was about to depart he asked:

Caller—Did Will leave you much?

Widow—Oh, yes, indeed, nearly every night.

As the birdies well know, many a love nest is built on no stronger foundation than a cute little limb.

Friend (to doctor)—I understand that Green is a martyr to chronic indigestion.

Doctor—No, he has indigestion all right, but it is his wife who is the martyr.

Parasites

This life isn't all a matter of money. Most of us would manage to get along somehow if we didn't do a bit of work the rest of our lives. Parasites do this, you know. But parasites merely exist. Man was given a brain so that he could learn to live.

Officer (on rifle range with sarcasm to luckless doughboy)—As a marksman, I don't think you've accomplished very much. Would-be Sharpshooter—My shoulder's taking a lot of punishment. Officer (nastily)—Humph! That's more than you can say for the target.

If all things in the home town where you live are not just as you like them, it is well to remember that it is the only home town that you have and that there is wisdom in making the most of it.

Asparagus—Mammy, de ladder in de back yard done fall down. Mammy—Yo' better tell yo' Pappy.

Asparagus—Ah don't need to. He's hanging from de window sill.

Catalogs to Catastrophe

Since January, catalogs describing lovely flowers—And garden stuff galore—have come to fill my leisure hours. In pictures and instructions clear, each catalog discloses The mystery of growing things—from radishes to roses. Inspired, I bought a lot of seeds; today I took the hoe.

My trowel, a spade, a fork, and rake, then planted them just so. Exhausted, as I view plain dirt, within my mind there lingers Those catalog's gay blooms—but ouch! they don't soothe blistered fingers.—Lyla Myers.

Rufus—Have you ever been up in an airplane? Goofus—Yes, I went up in one once, but I was scared so much I didn't let all my weight down.

Privilege of the Sex
Of maidens blighty who take their fling. There's none so flighty as coy Miss Spring!

Prison Warden—I've had charge of this prison for ten years. We are going to celebrate. What kind of a party do you boys suggest?

Prisoners (in unison)—Open house.

One way to deal with your enemies, is to figure out some sensible way to turn them into friends.

You Reap Many Rewards If Active In Club Work

Be Informed On Club Affairs

Club work is full of interest and adventure for those who know how to take an active part. You make pleasant contacts in your group, meet stimulating visitors.

And, with information on office holding, money-raising, committees, you can easily step to the fore.

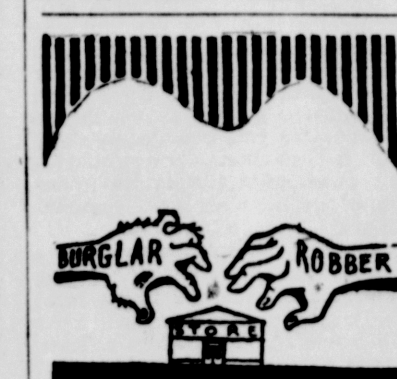

Perhaps your first post is with a committee and you are asked to write a report on its work. Show your efficiency by making a neat summary of the principal points, using paper which can be conveniently filed in the minute book.

You win the appreciation of fellow members, too, if you understand budget problems. You may be allotted a fund to spend as social chairman. Stay within that figure!

Is your club trying to raise money? Subscription affairs, such as dances, picnics and bridge parties, will be profitable if you compute the cost for each guest, then charge double. When selling food, the price should be two or even three times its cost.

For other successful money-making plans, see our 32-page booklet. Tells how to organize a club, draw up a constitution; gives duties of officers, members, committees. Includes a sample budget, tips on club etiquette.

Send 10¢ in coin for your copy of CLUBWOMAN'S GUIDE to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Campo Gets Six Months For Parole Violation

New York, April 11 (Special)—Frank Campo, who was convicted last year of the operation of two stills and possession of 4,500 gallons of mash on the farm of Arthur D'Agostino, Route 55, Highland, and who served a six months jail term, was again sent away for six months today by Judge Edward Conger, before whom he pleaded guilty to violating parole on which he had been placed after his release from jail. Campo had been indicted with John Ronzoni after two stills, one of 300 and the other 250-gallon capacity, were found on the farm. The new sentence will be served in Federal Detention Headquarters here.

Annual Election Of Married Women

Newly elected officers for the ensuing year of the Married Women's Club, chosen at the meeting Thursday afternoon were: Mrs. Arthur L. Colligan, president; Mrs. Thomas W. Reynolds, vice-president; Mrs. Raymond Quackenbush, secretary; Mrs. Phillips Ramsey, treasurer, and Mrs. Ralph Freer, corresponding secretary.

The meeting also honored the past presidents of the club who were guests of honor at the meeting. Those attending were Mrs. C. Ray Everett, Mrs. Raymond Lewis of Albany, Mrs. Stanley Winne and Mrs. Doris E. Monroe. Each expressed their pleasure at being with the club and mentioned some event occurring during their presidency. A telegram was read from Mrs. Burton Haver of Englewood, N. J., another past-president of the Married Women's Club, who was unable to be present.

Following the meeting a program of music and readings was enjoyed. Miss Jessie Kapreilian sang a group of soprano solos, "You in a Gondola" by Robert Clark, "None But the Lonely Heart" by Tchaikovsky and "My Task" by Ashford. She was accompanied by Miss Alma Burger. Mrs. S. Maxwell Taylor gave two readings, "The Theater Party" and "Their Only Child."

Afterward the group enjoyed a social hour. The tea table was attractive with spring flowers. Mrs. C. Ray Everett, first president of the Married Women's Club, and Mrs. Ward Brigham, retiring president, presided. The tea arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Kenneth Wood, Mrs. N. LeVan Haver, Mrs. Kenneth H. LeFever and Mrs. Amos MacCreery.

Emanon Luncheon

The Emanon Club of Hurley held a luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Tuesday. Those attending were: Mrs. Carl Kern, Mrs. Otis Tracy, Mrs. Richard Wagner, Mrs. Wessells Ten Eyck, Mrs. Charles Ashley and Mrs. Henry Battenfeld. Following the luncheon the members adjourned to the home of Mrs. Kern.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

HOST'S EXAMPLE IS GUEST'S GUIDE WHEN DINING IN A PRIVATE HOUSE

This Is Emily Post Answer to Woman Who Found Serving of Food in Unusual Manner Annoying

When you are a guest in a private house you are supposed to accept the table service as you find it, and not try to make changes that can seem to criticize the family's particular customs.

In a restaurant, however, you can do what is pleasing or comfortable for you. For example, you can—if they annoy you—put whatever is served in little side dishes on your plate, and ask the waiter to take away the empty dishes, but you couldn't do this in some one's house without embarrassing the family—unless you see them removing the contents of their dishes!

In the following letter the writer does not tell me whether the incident occurred in a restaurant or in some one's house. She says: "The other day I was served some chicken mince in an individual baking dish on a dinner plate with a helping of stewed potato and a helping of peas on the plate beside the baking dish. I found it very awkward to eat this food in and around this barricading dish but I did not know whether I should take the chicken out of it or whether I was supposed to eat from the dish."

In answer to this, it was, I think, a strange combination. In a restaurant you could perfectly well remove the chicken from the dish to your plate, and then ask the waiter to take it away. In a private house there would be nothing to do but follow whatever every one else was doing.

A Linen and Lace Tablecloth
Dear Mrs. Post: Is a linen and lace tablecloth suitable for any party table?

Answer: Yes.

A Choir Sings at a Wedding
Dear Mrs. Post: When a church choir sings at the wedding, should each member receive an engraved invitation to the reception; and if so, should the husbands and wives of the singers be included? A few good friends of mine. I would at least like to ask these but can I, without hurting the others?

Answer: If the choir sings professionally then you are not expected to send them invitations to the reception. If they volunteer, then I think inviting them (and husbands or wives) to the house is the least you can do to show your appreciation. You would in any case certainly invite those among them who are personal friends.

The Title "Doctor"
Dear Mrs. Post: Two of the men in this business office have Ph. D. degrees and every one here calls them Dr. This and Dr. That. I address them this way too, but I always wonder whether this is not overdoing the use of titles. It seems to me that in general business this title should be reserved for medical men.

Answer: The holder of a Ph. D. degree may properly be addressed by the title "Doctor" under all circumstances. But it is an especial requirement when the subject in which the person earned this degree applies to his everyday work. In any case, acknowledgement of this honor is a courtesy which should certainly be shown them unless they prefer to be called Mr. in ordinary business life.

NEW SHIRTFROCK FOR DRESS-UP

MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN 9354

The smartest shirtwaisters have gone "softie" this year! There's casual grace in pattern 9354 by Marian Martin—wouldn't it be attractive in a new rayon or cotton? Big, square pockets-ful of fashion interest may be stitched onto the bias skirt. The young, revers-collar is a becoming frame for your face; the short sleeves may have trim little cuffs. Use novelty buttons down the waist opening, add a front-tying sash and dart-in the bloused softness above the waistline. Why not let the collar and the pockets or cuffs be in lace-edged contrast?

Pattern 9354 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 3½ yards 35 inch fabric, ¾ yard contrast and 3 yards lace edging. Price 15 cents.

HERE'S A CLEVER IDEA! Women who haven't "PERFECT FIGURES" (and not many of us have), can be sure of having their smart MARIAN MARTIN frocks fit perfectly! The secret? Just order our simple basic pattern in your size, adjust it to YOUR OWN figure measurements, cut it out in muslin—and you have a permanent guide to use when making all your frocks! Send for Pattern 9306 today! Designed for sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 50. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. THIRTY CENTS (30c) for both. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Will Hold Finnish Service at Rifton

On Tuesday, April 16, at 8 p. m., a Finnish-Finnish service will be held at the Rifton Methodist Church by the Rev. John N. Nelson, of Detroit, Mich., for the benefit of Finland's warring condition.

This sermon will be sponsored by the Finnish Lutheran Congregation of Rifton. A collection will be taken and this total fund will be sent direct to the Red Cross at Finland. All are invited to attend and especially those who live and reside at the Rifton village.

He has held several Finnish services among the Finnish people in Rifton, but this being the first English one to be preached in Rifton, it is hoped a large crowd will attend.

Gap no more, my lady . . . here is the perfect "gadget" to keep you together. You can be long-waisted, you can exercise, you can exercise nice long stretches, and still be as trim as a fashion plate!

How to use: Simply take the button between two fingers and stretch gripper to release pin-point insert pin inside skirt seam at the waistband. Insert second pin leaving enough slack in waistband so that when skirt is fastened, the gripper will be stretched flat. This slight tension holds blouse or sweater firmly in place. Will not harm the sheers fabric!

cy, scored direct hits on both vessels, and when last seen the aircraft carrier was belching smoke and the cruiser was listing heavily.

Though met with terrific anti-aircraft fire and fiercely attacked by British pursuit planes, the Germans were said to have escaped unscathed in the encounter 125 miles northwest of the Norwegian port of Trondheim, now in Nazi hands.

In addition to this success, two more British destroyers were reported to have been destroyed yesterday at Narvik, one port in northern Norway, bringing to six the number the Germans say were sunk there. No details were given.

Authorized sources, meanwhile, predicted that far-reaching economic advantages would accrue to the Reich as a result of the Scandinavian coup. Chief results, they said, would be:

Suspension of the operation of Norwegian and Danish merchant vessels which have been carrying vital supplies to England from the ports of the world.

Paralysis of English imports from the entire northern area of Europe through German control of access to the Atlantic.

Shifting of the bulk of northern European trade to Germany for the duration of the war.

To demonstrate what it means to the Reich to have control of northern shipping lanes, Germans said that Great Britain had obtained through these trade routes 37 per cent of her butter imports, 50 per cent of her egg imports and 60 per cent of her pork imports.

In addition to these commodities, Britain also obtained large supplies of ore, whale oil, fish, hides and fur from Norway.

"There is no doubt that the German market will be able to absorb without trouble all the supplies which Denmark and Norway formerly sold to Britain," the authoritative commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland declared.

The same commentary also made clear that Germany intends to mesh Scandinavian economy as closely as possible with her own.

"There is no doubt that Germany assumes not only military but economic obligations toward both countries," it declared.

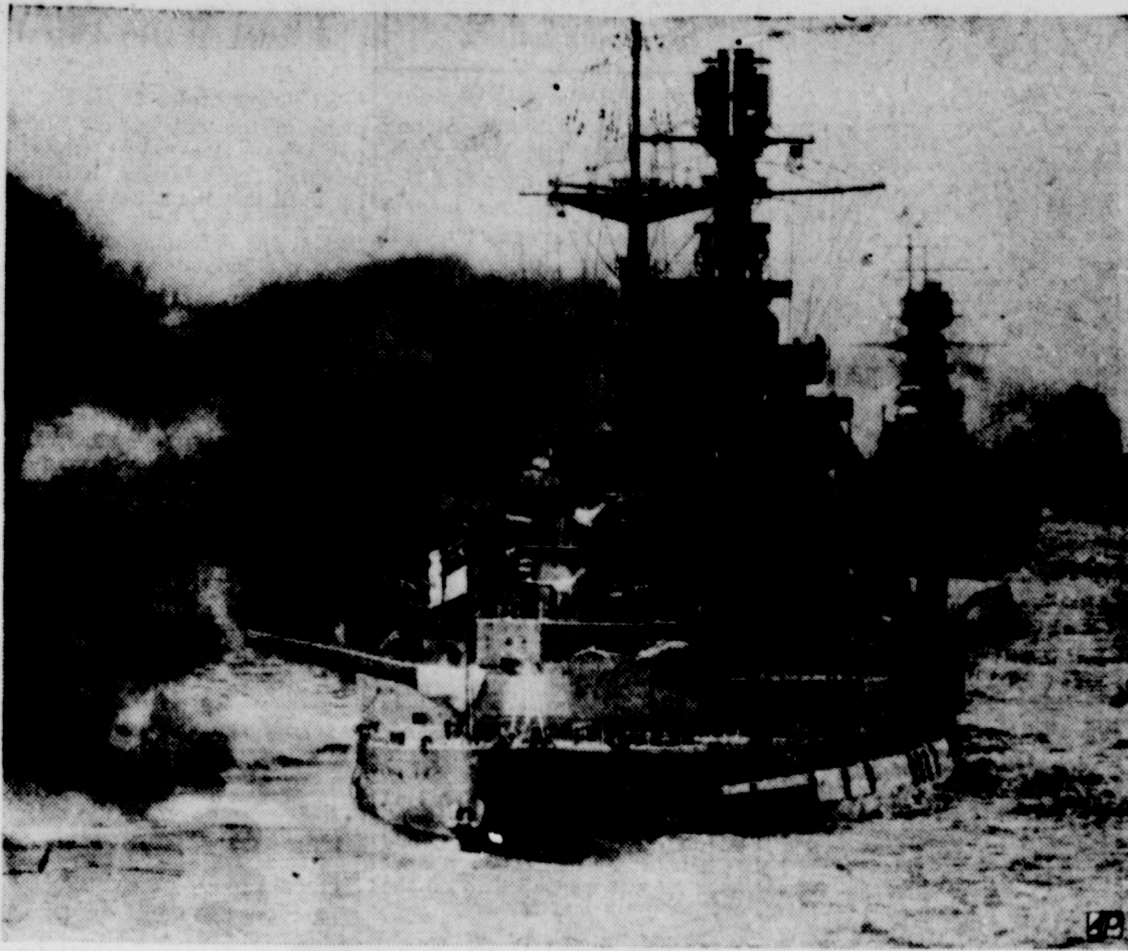

Spokesmen said that the details of economic relations had not yet been worked out, but it was expected that a trade commission would depart soon for Copenhagen to study the situation with reference to Denmark.

While the Germans were confident of their ability to absorb the export trade of Norway and Denmark, they recognized that both countries are heavy importers and acknowledged that the Reich cannot supply all their demands.

Informed sources said that Germany could supply Norway with coal, chemicals and machinery. For other imports, such as textiles, food-stuffs and minerals, these sources said, Norway "will of course remain dependent on the supplies she is able to import outside the British sea war zone and mine blockade."

Denmark is virtually in the the shells I had been using were new shells the bullets would have pierced the body of the animal.

"I did not shoot at the dog at a distance but waited until I was close to the animal, and I did not endanger the life of any person when I fired at the dog."

"When I got close to the dog I walked around in front of him so that there would be no danger of the bullet ricocheting. I did not shoot the dog when it was on the steps of the building as reported."

Lincoln Street Affair

The dog warden also gave his side of the shooting of a dog on Lincoln street on Thursday. He said he saw an unmuzzled dog and chased it through the fields. When he caught up with the animal on Lincoln street he said he looked around to make sure that there was no person in danger.

"I made sure that no persons were in line of fire," he said "and then shot the dog, but only wounded it. Again it was the story of having old shells in my gun, and the animal got away."

afire. The whole population—about 100—scurried to the woods. Small children were hidden under sheets in the deep snow to conceal them from the raiders.

A second wave of three planes dropped to less than 400 feet above the woods and peppered the villagers with machine-gun fire.

When the raiders left an hour and a half later, the king and crown prince jumped from their cars and ran to the woods where Olav helped with first aid. Several persons were injured.

Both Elverum, 35 miles to the south, and Hamar, where the government first fled from Oslo, were in flames early today and many Norwegian towns were reported bombed.

Two persons were killed, many were hurt and numerous buildings set afire at Elverum, twice-raided yesterday.

Kongsvinger, about 125 miles northeast of Oslo, also was bombed. German and Norwegian troops were fighting at several points west of Kongsvinger and at Eidsvoll, half way between Oslo and Hamar.

Swedish correspondents in Norway emphasized the envelopment tactics of the hastily mobilized Norwegian forces.

They said the Germans at Elverum were trapped "in a sack" with bridges burned behind them and that it was only a question of hours before they would be wiped out.

Near Kongsvinger, too, they said, the Germans were caught in a bottleneck and a pitched battle was believed imminent. Among the Germans fighting there was the prize crew taken last fall from the American steamer City of Flint. They had been released from internment on orders from the German command.

Parent-Teacher Ass'n

Highland, April 11—Mrs. Gladys Mears, Mrs. Elmer Randall and Mrs. S. A. MacCormac were appointed a nominating committee at the April meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association Monday evening. Mrs. Charles Schmidt, first vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Francis Gaffney, Jr., who is ill. In the absence of the secretary no minutes were available. Attention was called to the art exhibit which will provide means to procure pictures for the new school. James Hildebrand, instructor in Latin, was introduced and gave a splendid talk on "Propaganda" and the difficulty in telling the true from the false. He was followed by Anthony Terino, English instructor, who continued the subject. At the close an open forum was held until a late hour. Owing to the rainy evening the attendance was light. The meeting in May has the subject, "Nature at Work," with John J. Gaffney, chairman.

Cards and Reds Favored as Nat Flag Winners

New York, April 12 (AP)—Baseball "experts" as a whole are generally agreed that the 1940 National League race will be a two-team affair, but right there the general agreement stops. They are split almost 50-50 on whether the St. Louis Cardinals or the Cincinnati Reds will come home in front, with a slight edge going to the St. Louis entry.

Of the 76 sports writers taking part in the Associated Press poll all but three named either the Cards or Reds in the No. 1 spot, the Cards drawing 39 first-place votes to 34 for the defending champions. One long-shot addict picked the Pirates, and two strung along with the Cubs.

Second-place ballots also were pretty well cornered by the 1-2 teams, although nine voters picked the Cubs for the runner-up spot, six named the Giants, four the Dodgers and two the Pirates. There the common agreement eased, however, and it was every man for himself the rest of the way in, or at least down to the Bees and Phillies. The Phillies escaped being a unanimous last-place choice by three seventh-place votes, and the Bees escaped a similar seventh-place designation by drawing one fourth, one fifth, two sixth and three eighth-place votes.

St. Peter's Cagers Receive Trophy

Phil McDonald, right center, accepts the Dean Drury basketball trophy from the Very Rev. Martin J. Drury himself to present to his Catholic League champions, St. Peter's. The award was made last night at the first annual banquet of the Catholic Athletic Association held in Cuneo's. At the speakers' table are Martin Nilan, secretary; the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen, of St. Peter's Church; Francis McCordie, Bernard O'Shea, C.Y.O. director of New York city (rear); the Very Rev. Martin J. Drury, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties; Don Carney, W.K.N.Y. sportscaster; President Al Lynch of the Catholic A. A.; Buck Freeman (rear), coach of Cathedral College; Phil McDonald, coach of St. Peter's champions; the Rev. George McWeeney (rear); the Rev. B. C. Roth of St. Mary's Church and the Rev. Stanislaus Malinowski, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church.

Boston—Arriving here early today, the Bees and Sox were joint guests at a "welcome home" breakfast, after which the Bees went house hunting and the Sox boarded buses for Worcester to fill their annual engagement with Jack Barry's Holy Cross nine. Fritz Ostermuller, left behind in the Sarasota camp to work himself into condition, was expected to report to Manager Joe Cronin before nightfall. He is recuperating from an attack of influenza.

Brooklyn—Such new Dodger heroes as Joe Vosmik, Roy Cullenbine, Peewee Reese, Charlie Gilbert and Tex Carleton were scheduled to make their bows to the "home folks" at Ebbets Field today as the Flatbush Fusileers opened a three-game series with the Yanks. Red Ruffing was down to start for the Yanks, with Carleton side-arming them across for the Dodgers. Manager Leo Durocher's six-inning stint at shortstop yesterday, his first of the season, led to the belief that he would be in there on opening day.

Rangers Need Only One More Win to Clinch Hockey Title

Toronto, April 12 (AP)—Victorious 2 to 1 in a furious overtime struggle last night, the New York Rangers need only one more win over the Maple Leafs to clinch the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy.

Coming back from two straight defeats on the local ice, the Rangers captured the crucial fifth game of the National Hockey League playoff finals when Murray Patrick, son of Manager Lester Patrick, slammed the winning goal into the net in 11:43 of the second overtime period. The sixth, and possibly the deciding game, is scheduled here tomorrow night.

The Maple Leafs, riding the crest after two straight victories and supremely confident they had the Rangers on the run, took a big gamble and lost. Manager Conny Smythe held four of his regulars out of the contest to give them a rest, and the Rangers didn't fail to grasp the opportunity.

Dean Drury Says Sports Help to Develop Character

Featured on the program of speakers at the banquet of the Catholic Athletic Association, the Very Rev. Martin J. Drury, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, told 200 young athletes and their friends in Cuneo's Restaurant that abiding by the decisions of the referee helps to build character.

Besides favoring the assemblage with his remarks pertaining to the welfare of the growing generation, Father Drury, who besides being dean is pastor of St. Mary's Church, presented his own trophy to the basketball champions of the Catholic League. St. Peter's, Philip McDonald, coach, accepting the prize.

Other speakers introduced by Don Carney of W.K.N.Y., acting as toastmaster in place of Corporation Counsel John M. Cashion, who is ill, were "Buck" Freeman, coach at Cathedral College and former basketball mentor at St. John's College; Bernard O'Shea, director of activities for the Catholic Youth Organization of New York city; Mickey Walker, former boxing champion of the world in the welterweight and middleweight divisions and the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth of St. Mary's Church.

Dean Drury, lauding sports as a means of building character among the youth of the nation, said, "we should abide by the decisions of the referees, because once a youth knows that a decision will hold, he'll carry that same principle into later life."

Buck Freeman's talk was devoted to college basketball. He said, "the influx of the western teams into the east has been the greatest thing that could happen to the cage sport. They have taught us a lot."

He referred to the New York Jewels, who played at the Municipal Auditorium in the American Professional Basketball League, saying that his famous Wonder Five composed of Rip Gerson, Mac Kinsbrunner, Max Posnack, Matty Begovich and others formed the nucleus for one of the finest combinations in the pro loop.

O'Shea's talk was in the form of an invitation to Ulster and Sullivan county athletic groups to join the C.Y.O. League of the metropolitan district. "We want to help your activities form a closer bond between our organization and yours."

Mickey Walker's talk was brief, dealing with the good influence sports have on the youth of the nation. He injected several humorous stories into his remarks, making them as colorful as the ring campaigns of his younger days. Father Roth urged continuation of the good work carried on by the Catholic Athletic Association, complimenting President Al Lynch for his leadership during the past year.

Others at the speakers' table as guests were Father McWeeney of East Kingston; the Rev. Stanislaus Malinowski, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church; the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen of St. Peter's Church; and Sidney G. Lutzin, director of the Kingston Recreational Department, who was praised for his cooperation with the Catholic Association.

Prizes awarded besides the trophy given to St. Peter's basketball team were:

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Dayton, Ohio—Rained out yesterday, the Detroit Tigers and Cincinnati Reds try it again in their en route home series. Tommy Bridges and Buck Newsom, big guns of the Detroit hill staff, were down for their final airing before the start of the season next week. Whitey Moore was manager Bill McKechnie's choice.

Mayfield, Ky.—The rumor persists that the Phillies are trying to get Paul Campbell, Louisville first baseman, to bolster the right side of their infield. The Phils and Athletics meet today in their second "city series" game. Connie Mack has taken a big liking to Les McCrabb, rookie pitcher up from Williamsport of the Eastern League.

St. Louis—Back home a day ahead of schedule because their final road games were cancelled, the Cardinals and Browns took it easy today before clashing in the first game of the city series tomorrow. The Cards, saving their mound aces—Curt Davis and Lon Warneke—for the National League opener, have nominated Bill McGee, Max Lanier and Bob Bowman to face the Browns, while Manager Fred Haney said Johnny Whitehead, Nate Andrews, Vernon Kennedy, Elden Auker, Bob Harris and George Coffman would work in the series.

Son Killed to Conceal Activity Of Reds in Spain

Washington, April 12 (AP)—A Dies committee witness testified today that his son and several other boys who went into the Spanish civil war under auspices of the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade were killed to conceal Communist activities in Spain.

The testimony came from Maxwell Wallach, Detroit, as the House committee investigation of un-American activities turned to a study of enlistments in the United States for the Spanish republican cause.

Wallach said that his son, Albert, went to Spain in February, 1937, and he last heard from him in July, 1937. But he investigated, he said, and learned from some of Albert's friends in Spain that a group of boys were killed at a camp near Barcelona.

"It was because it was known that the efforts were being made in their behalf," Wallach said. "They thought it would be better to kill them rather than let them come back and let Americans know what the Communists really were doing in Spain."

The witness said of his discussions in New York with the boys "who did return": "My reaction was their dissatisfaction with the personnel in charge; the entire movement in Spain was operated for a selfish motive; men were treated worse than dogs."

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, April 12—Mrs. J. Machino and Mrs. F. Hussman made a shopping trip to Kingston Wednesday.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 12 (AP)—A handful of airlines and specialties worked against a downward trend which prevailed among most leaders in today's stock market.

The list was ragged from the start. Near the final hour declines of fractions to around a point were in the majority, but dealings were the lightest of the week. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 850,000 shares.

Speculative ardor was said to have cooled considerably because of the lack of definite information regarding the tide of battle off Norway between the British and Germans. While domestic business news was fairly comforting, even here clouds were to be seen.

Bonds were slippery and commodities steady. European markets got nowhere in particular, and at New York, renewed weakness of the "free" pound sterling served as a handicap for stocks.

Up as much as a point or so at one time were Dresser Mfg., N. Y. Shipbuilding, American Airlines, Transcontinental & Western Air, and Martin-Parry.

Sluggish were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, American Smelting, American Telephone & Telegraph, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, du Pont and International Paper.

Price Level of Staples Move Up

After six sessions, excluding the short Saturday session, in which volume on the Stock Exchange exceeded a million shares a day, Tuesday's being more than double that figure, trading Thursday fell back to 890,000 shares, as continued uncertainties led to caution and traders marked time until the situation could be analyzed and some idea obtained of the probable course of events.

Prices recovered somewhat after their irregular decline of Wednesday and with the tone of the market generally quiet and steady all Dow-Jones averages showed slight gains for the day.

Industrials gained 39 points, to close at 149.98, below the best level of the day. Rails advanced .08, to 31.28 and utilities were ahead .16, to 25.25. Pulp and paper issues continued among the most active stocks, but some of the issues were shaded on profit-taking after their recent bulge, as it was recognized that Hitler had failed to make the progress in his invasion of Norway that had first appeared.

The general price level of staples moved upward and the Dow-Jones index gained 0.16 for the day, after gains had been reduced in late trading. Wheat trended higher on reduced volume and futures closed with gains of ¼ to ½ cent a bushel. Coarse grains were independently firm. Cotton was irregular and final prices were unchanged to 10 points lower. Cocoa went to the highest level of the past three months. Raw sugar buyers were active fearing a sharp rise in freight rates if Scandinavian ships are withdrawn from runs to the U. S. from Cuba and the Philippines. It is estimated that as much as 40 per cent of the tonnage from Scandinavia to the U. S. is carried on Scandinavian ships. The majority of Norwegian vessels. Operators were busy yesterday, paying $2.85 for prompt sugars and 2.89 for forward shipment.

Interest in Scandinavian issues featured the bond market. On change of news from the battle front Norwegian issues staged a sharp advance around mid-day, eased later. Most Danish obligations showed moderate net losses. Finnish 6s sold around 98, off about 17 points for the session. Canadian bonds went higher. Treasuries were stronger.

Abroad, news from Norway stimulated a rally in the London market, prices moved steadily upward during the session and a strong closing showed industrials and rail averages with good gains, after showing losses Tuesday and Wednesday. On the Paris Bourse there was a big rise in prices Thursday, but later uncertainty and profit taking shaded gains about one-half. There was a general recovery on the Amsterdam Bourse with net gains ranging up to five points on the average.

Governor Lehman yesterday signed the Stephens bill permitting all state banks and trust companies to close on Saturdays from June 30 to Labor Day. He also signed the bill reducing unemployment insurance taxes on employers from three per cent to 2.7 per cent of their annual payrolls. Another bill approved was that which prohibits untrue and misleading advertising of loan and interest rates.

Republican Senator Pliny W. Williamson, author of the bill, said that under present advertising the true cost of such loans "often becomes approximately double the stated discount rate."

Loadings for the week ended April 6 totaled 602,697 cars, a decrease of 25,581 from the preceding week, a more than seasonal drop, but ahead of the same week last year by 67,745 and a gain of 80,648 over the 1938 week.

Steps Are Taken By Schoonmaker To Void Election

Melvin D. Schoonmaker of Ellenville this week took the initial step to void the village election of March 19 for the office of police justice, when he served papers on Mayor Benjamin Sparks, Trustees Louis Zipperman and Oliver Brought, Village Clerk Miss Alice L. Moffitt, and candidates Herman Cohen and Benjamin Lonsstein. No papers were served on Philip Slutsky, since he is vacationing in Florida.

The papers are returnable on April 19, at Troy. Mr. Schoonmaker will attempt to show that the election should be declared void on the ground that sample ballots were not available until 10 minutes before the opening of the polls; that the election was not held on the ground floor, and that a wine and liquor store, located near the polling place, was open during the voting.

If Schoonmaker attempts to have the election declared void, it will necessitate a second election to fill the office of police justice of the village, but the election of trustees will not be affected.

Sadness Is Taken To Prison Today

Ronald J. Sadness, sentenced to a term of 10 to 20 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison, on his plea of guilty as a second offender to grand larceny, first degree, was taken to prison today by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Brown.

Sadness, who claimed Baltimore as his home, was sentenced in county court when he pleaded guilty to taking a car from Ellenville to Florida after he had given a bad check in payment. His prior conviction had been in California.

For, Against Amendments

Washington, April 12 (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor asked the House today to approve the Norton amendments to the Wagner act, but the rival CIO was buttonholing congressmen to vote against them. "In our opinion," Green wrote all House members, "these amendments are reasonable, highly necessary, and if adopted will serve to promote a better and more satisfactory administration of the National Labor Relations Act."

Imaginary Fear Cited As Cause of 'Fatigue'

Fatigue, in the opinion of Dr. George Ross Wells, Hartford, Conn., psychologist, is "the most devastating force in individual life today."

This fatigue, he warned, is seldom the result of physical or emotional effort, but from "long periods of going too fast, and being hurried by fears, of which most are purely imaginary."

"Many of us find life too hard, too drab, too difficult, because we are fatigued."

In such cases, he said, no benefit can be obtained from a change of activity. He prescribed complete rest, recreation, and even loafing as the best means of combating the distress.

Fears and prejudices, he said, "were taught us," and "most of us were born into many of the beliefs we hold today."

A reasonably happy life can be obtained, Dr. Wells declared, by "avoiding the adverse effects of outside interference and by pursuing a definite goal within reason."

Feud for Thought

Independence, Kas. (AP)—Simply because an Independence man, who lived in the same house in the same ward for 20 years, got to feuding with his neighbor he has to re-register to vote. The fight was over a hedge. So the householder bought an adjoining lot and moved his house upon it. Even if the first gentleman is living in the same house, it has a different address. The law says if a man changes addresses he must re-register.

Standard's First Birthday Sale

The Standard Furniture Co. is celebrating the first anniversary of the opening of its Kingston store. It was just a year ago today that the company opened up in the former Montgomery Ward store building on Fair street.

To mark the event is taking large space to advertise its First Anniversary Sale, which started today and which embraces a large list of attractive offerings for the people of Ulster county.

Manager A. Goldman, previously connected with the Albany store of the company, says that he is well pleased with the reception that has been given the store in its first year. There has been a most satisfactory patronage, with increases shown from month to month. He is expecting the values offered at the present sale to further increase the store's circle of friends and patrons.

Incidentally this is the 33rd anniversary of the parent store, the Standard Furniture Co. of Albany.

History Repeats

Wabash, Ind. (AP)—Vern Zook lent his auto to Eugene Hiatt. The latter ran into the dead end of a road and damaged the car. He took it to a repair shop. Zook, the automobile repaired, went for a drive. He ran into the dead end of a road and damaged the car. He also took it to a repair shop.

Sanford Says Few Persons Know Full Horror of Rabies

Kingston who have failed to realize the seriousness of the disease known as rabies among dogs, or the human infection known as hydrophobia," said Dr. Sanford. "Many also do not realize that the most strict measures must be employed in order to prevent the occurrence and spread of rabies.

"I am assuming that all dog owners are dog lovers and that they would do everything possible to protect the lives of their pets. I also believe that the people of Kingston love their children and not only would do everything possible to safeguard their health and lives but should also be grateful that when dangers threaten them which are beyond the control of the immediate family, laws and regulations can be made by which that danger may be removed.

One of Most Fatal

"Rabies occurring among dogs is one of the most fatal diseases, recovery seldom or ever, taking place after the symptoms have developed. Vaccination of dogs does not furnish complete immunity. It is communicated from one dog to another or to a human by the saliva of an infected animal through an abrasion of the skin or mucous membranes, almost always by bites or scratches. After occurrence of the infection, it

Grass Fire Burns Garages

A grass fire on the property of John V. Wallace, Saugerties road, three miles from Kingston, completely destroyed three garages yesterday when it became uncontrollable. Fred Holderman, traveling toward Albany from Ridgefield, N. J., saw the blaze and snapped the picture as the blaze engulfed the buildings in which was stored a quantity of antique furniture.

may be 20 to 60 days before symptoms appear. The longest authentic period being seven months. The nearer the site of infection is to the brain the shorter the incubation period. In a dog, death takes place within seven days from the development of symptoms in practically all cases.

Human Rabies, Hydrophobia

"Human rabies is known as hydrophobia (fear of water), so called because there is a convulsive contraction of the throat muscles brought on when attempting to drink or swallow. Death of a human being infected with rabies practically always occurs, once symptoms have developed, and a death of a most horrible nature. Symptoms of the disease usually develop in three to eight weeks after infection but may not for six months or more. At first, there is a difficulty in breathing, then difficulty in swallowing caused by painful contraction of the throat muscles. Later these symptoms are intensified so that the patient dreads the very sight of water. He may become wild, maniacal, with saliva dripping from the mouth, he may attack his attendants. During all this time, he is in full possession of his senses and suffers intensely. This stage lasts from 1½ to 3 days, and is followed by the paralytic stage which lasts from 6 to 18 hours. Convulsions followed by paralysis occurs and death from paralysis of the heart or respiratory center.

Drastic Measures

"The prevention of the occurrence or spread of rabies in a community calls for drastic measures. No half way methods can be employed. It is not enough to muzzle all dogs and then let them roam the streets day and night when at any time they might be attacked by a rabid dog from outside the city. That is not even being fair to your dog. Suppose your dog should thus be bitten or scratched.

The certification that rabies exists among dogs in Kingston was made by the state commissioner of health on March 26, 1940 and all regulations incident to this must be followed until the danger of rabies no longer exists and that will be for six months from the occurrence of the last case of rabies in this city."

Postal revenues of the United States for the last fiscal year were the highest on record.

Uptown Business Men Not Involved

Louis Weiner, president of the Uptown Business Men's Association, today informed The Freeman that the Uptown Business Men's Association is in no way involved in the controversy which has arisen between firms making installations of air-conditioning units.

In Thursday's Freeman appeared an advertisement of the Oil Supply Corporation offering a $10 reward for proof of an installation prior to September 1, 1936. Mr. Weiner told a Freeman reporter that he had consented to have replies to the advertisement come to him at his store address at 316 Wall street as well as to the post office box of the Oil Supply Corporation, whose telephone number was also included in the advertisement. This consent of Mr. Weiner was in a personal nature and was in no way intended to authorize the use of the name of the Uptown Business Men's Association of which he happens to be president. Mr. Weiner said he had not given permission to use the name of the Business Association in the advertisement since the association had in no way sponsored or been interested in the matter. Use of the name Uptown Business Association was not authorized by the president or directors of the association and the association had nothing to do with the advertisement as it appeared in the paper.
